

ABSTRACT

A data file management system for web browsers includes a program configured to search data files upon an activation of an event.